For the International Year of Water Cooperation 2013, the World Water Council is co-organizing with the European Parliament, the Cercle français de l'eau and the Rhine Meuse Water Agency, an exclusive seminar on Transboundary Water Cooperation.

High level international speakers are expected on the 11th of December at the Council of Europe for a day of discussions and debates. The seminar will promote successful examples of transboundary water cooperation programs by presenting different assets of joint management.

Experts and policy makers will guide participants through best practices from Europe to Asia passing through Latin America and Africa.
